HUGE AND DELIGHTED CROWDS VIEW DRESSED UP STORE WINDOWS

All Hands Were on Hand to See the Sights and Everybody was Delighted with the Fine Showing Made by the Business Houses at the Opening of Dress Up Week.

Nothing short of a special dictionary of adjectives and adverbs could possibly enable any one to do justice in describing the success of the inauguration of Dress-up Week Friday evening. Even the astute business men themselves had no idea that it would be quite the overwhelming success that it was. And best of all, everybody took some part in the general dress-up idea, making for a spirit of co-operation between our merchants which augurs good indeed for the progress of our city.

The evening being so mild, there was a big, yes, an immense crowd on the business streets both uptown and downtown some time before the hour set for the unveiling of the windows. And certainly Wall street, Broadway in spots and the downtown business section of our city did present a ghastly and uncanny appearance during the day. Unless strangers passing through the city took the time to stop and read the green cards in the windows during the day, they must have wondered what ailed the business houses of Kingston, that everything was covered up.

Of course, the crowd was the most dense in front of some of the largest stores as the hour of 8 o'clock drew near, and when Mayor Canfield set off the signal and the fire alarm sounded seven strokes there was great excitement, a craning of necks and pressing of noses against the windows to have the first peek.

For beauty and artistic effect, originality and attractiveness, there can be no doubt that taken altogether it was the handsomest display that could be found outside of New York city, in the Hudson valley, and that assertion is made by one familiar with window decorations in Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Albany. Some of the windows would even rival those of New York city itself.

In the shops where clothes for men and women and children are sold there were to be seen wearing apparel that was stylish, ultra-fashionable, pretty, simple, smart, up-to-date, elegant, in fact to suit all tastes.

But they were by no means the only kind of stores that had fine displays. It was seen there were artists in our hardware stores, our drug stores, our candy stores, our stationery stores, our jewelry stores, our shoe stores, even our grocery stores and our ten cent stores.

The sporting goods stores were right in their glory as were the furniture stores, and Burgevin's fur store was a bower of beauty.

There was so much to be seen that the uptown and downtown business streets were filled with a happy, joyous crowd until long after the curfew sounded, for everybody who possibly could, had evidently taken to heart the admonition, "Be on Hand."

The members of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce's Dress-up Week committee, together with Mayor Canfield, President Herbert and Secretary Hudson, of the Chamber of Commerce, are all to be most enthusiastically congratulated upon the huge success of the opening display of Kingston's first Dress-up Week.

One of the most artistic and attractive displays on Wall street was that of S. Cohen's Sons, which showed the goods of the store in connection with a pretty outdoor scene where there were real birds perched upon the boughs of evergreen and spring shrubbery, a small boy holding onto a real Bull Terrier, all softened by an exceedingly pretty lighting effect. The other window was overhung with the great white wings of a swan, while full-bearing animals—a cunning little chipmunk calling out special exclamations of delight from the passersby. In this setting the men's wear shone resplendent.

Another exceedingly clever and amusing window was that of E. Winter's Sons—not the one of the framed pictures which are lovely—but the other one of the eight "Kaptivung Kewpie." First there is the modest, downward glancing bride with her veil and orange blossoms and all the rest of it, practically according to the present dictates of fashion. Then comes the Kewpie "next in line," in a double sense, for this fair maid with crimson sash and hat also wears a most magnificent diamond ring that fairly blinds one. Then comes a cunning and sort of homesick "Kitchen Kewpie" in gingham apron and dusting cap. Occupying the center of the semi-circle is a most dazzling of the semi-circle "with feathers," "Hawaiah" and all that. As a pretty, beaded and all that. As a pretty, beaded and all that. As a pretty, beaded and all that.

In this setting the men's wear shone resplendent.

Another most tempting display of canned goods and groceries was that of the Craft and Son store. In one of W. F. Dedrick's windows was shown very artistically, daintily perfumes together with fine ferns, the entire coloring being a delicate spring-like green. Boxes of candy occupied the other window. Charles Safford had both windows artistically decorated, the one containing a remarkably handsome showing of jewelry, the other the newest designs in cut glass.

E. T. Stelle and Son's new store made an especially fine showing of exclusive and fashionable footwear. Beautiful cut glass and elegant jewelry formed the displays of the C. V. L. Pitts's windows. In the Farns Millinery windows two tall vases filled with flowers formed a unique feature amongst the handsome spring hats.

Costello & Dugan made a fine showing with fancy hardware and exclusive leather goods. Lovin's display of women's most attractive frocks, waists, etc., had a patriotic touch in the showing of large pictures of the late Ex-President Roosevelt and President Wilson.

The L. S. Winne Company had two windows that proved mighty attractive to the men and to the women, too, who are interested in gardening, as their hardware showing was quite unusual in character. Gillespie's windows showed well arranged food supplies in jars and cans, etc.

Herzog did a great stunt in having one of his dress-up windows actually open with only auto dres. For the main showing, in the other window were artistic wall papers, mouldings and hangings.

Going over to Fair street, George B. Styles headed the procession with an elaborate window full of beautiful cut glass and another window full of finest jewelry.

The Loughran Plumbing Company must have developed in many a mind and heart a great longing for bathroom dress-ups and other plumbing luxuries because of their showing. One of the most elaborate and attractive displays was that of the Charles Warren Sporting Goods Store. A novel bamboo hut was about to be entered by a life-sized hunter in full hunting costume, even to his hat being trimmed with pretty fishing flies. In his hand he carried besides his fishing tackle a huge, funny monster. Then there were many other articles "dear to the sportsman's heart" shown that were in perfect keeping with the picture.

One great beauty spot in the heart of the uptown business section was that of the Burgess Sons' flower shop. Gardenias, in clusters and dainty ribbon-tied baskets; again great potted plants of rare character, a mass of bloom and most beautifully grouped as to the color effects, held the attention of a big crowd all through the evening.

Frank Byer's showing of tobaccos, cigars, etc., was especially good and much liked by the men folk. A "Violet" window, unique and exceedingly pretty, showed the latest record numbers for the Columbia Shop.

Along Broadway, the Kingston Gas and Electric Company had indeed a brilliant showing of all sorts of lighting fixtures and electric conveniences. Fred Diehl had a bewildering display of every conceivable sort of sporting goods for children and grown-ups.

The Gregory Company showed in one window a beautiful assortment of draperies and an art lamp, in the other combination ranges that would more than delight the heart of every housekeeper.

M. Clyde Crosby made a notable showing of a fine stock of men's hats, shoes, shirts, etc. Oppenheimer Brothers had splendidly arranged one window full of fine cut glass; the other of beautiful art silver.

William O'Reilly—The two large windows were attractively decorated with an assortment of stationery, books, sheet music, etc. Pink and red crepe paper were used in form a pretty background to the picture.

S. L. Torrey—A fine display of furniture. S. E. Highway—The three large windows were used for displaying a fine assortment of dry goods and women's wear. An artistic background was made up of a trellis with climbing vines and ribbons. It was one of the best displays downtown.

Kerley Estate—Two large show windows devoted to an attractive display of dry goods. J. T. Johnson—An effective display of fishing tackle and automobile supplies.

John J. Larkin—Up-to-the-minute shoe display which was artistically arranged. Max Greenwald—One of the finest shoe displays in the city with an ornate background of floral effect. High McGeehan—Stationery and "smokers' articles."

Weber's Pharmacy—Toilet soap and drugs. Pink effect lights in rear which brought out decorations finely. Stock & Cordis—An unusually well arranged display of office and home furniture.

Connelly Drug Company—One window devoted to a home garden display with the Victory Garden planted. Arnet Brothers—Attractive display of men's and boys' suits. Canfield Supply Company—Farm supplies.

VON BERNSTORFF DENIES COMPLICITY

Had no Knowledge of Plots of Boy-Ed and von Papen—In Conflict With Military Rulers of Germany.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Berlin, April 4, via London, April 5.—A denial of complicity in the acts of Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Papen in the United States or even the slightest knowledge of them at the time they were committed, was made today by Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to Washington.

(Boy-Ed and von Papen carried on an active campaign in the United States, resulting in strikes and numerous acts of destruction in industrial centers.) Von Bernstorff went on to say that the British government has in its possession evidence to establish his claims. The allusion to his Washington sojourn came from an interview on the course of Germans of the old regime holding office under the present socialist rule.

Von Bernstorff reiterated his previous declarations of democratic sympathies, adding that his leanings towards democracy had been the occasion of several clashes between himself and the former German government.

"Throughout the war I was in constant conflict with the military and naval rulers of my country," he said the former ambassador. "How hard I had to fight them, especially in the cases of the Lusitania, the Arabic and the Sussex which have been despatched in America and are therefore known to the United States government."

"I was one of the strongest opponents of unrestricted submarine warfare. I always worked for peace and, like your president, tried my best to end the world conflict in 1918. Not having succeeded then, owing to the domination of our military and naval leaders, I almost felt as though I had scored a belated victory when those fatal influences were removed through revolution."

The ex-ambassador was then reminded of his connection with the activities of Boy-Ed and von Papen to further Germany's militaristic designs in America. He replied: "I must emphasize that whatever Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Papen may have done, they acted quite independently of the German embassy. These officers had their own offices in New York and received their instructions direct from the general staff and the admiralty in Berlin. Moreover, may I remind you that when they left the United States I was officially assured by the American state department that I was not involved in their affairs. Still less did I have to do with the work of other German agents of the army and navy in the United States."

After the departure of Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Papen from Washington I continued to work in the United States for a whole year for a peace of reconciliation, until the deplorable resumption of unrestricted submarine warfare, decided upon against my most emphatic advice, put an end to all of my efforts.

"On my return to Germany I told every person who would listen that I immediately demoralization of our entire governmental system could bring the war to a speedy end. My advice was not heeded."

"Only the revolution, which really began under the chancellorship of Prince Max of Baden, was effective in bringing about the downfall of those harmful militaristic anti-democratic forces. It would have been incongruous for me to resign."

"I feel in honor bound to stay and give a helping hand in this blackest period of my country's history."

Walton Ferry Bill Pass. By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, April 5.—(Special to The Freeman)—The senate has passed the bill by Senator Walton which confers jurisdiction on the state court to determine the claims of the executors of Joseph H. Brock for damages to Sleighburgh ferry on Rondout creek.

The Walton bill was also passed by the senate which authorizes the village of Catskill to acquire or lease ferries between that village and Greendale.

Your Share is $51.56. By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, April 5.—There was in circulation April 1, $51.56 for every man, woman and child in the United States, according to figures made public by the treasury department. This is an increase over one year ago of .17 and is based on the estimated population of continental United States at 107,665,900. These estimated figures of population show an increase over 1918 of 1,729,000.

President's Condition Improving. By Telegram to The Freeman. Paris, April 5.—The condition of President Wilson seems to be improving. Admiral Grayson again reported that the president is suffering from a severe cold and that he has been instructed to remain in bed until he has completely recovered.

MARCOSSON URGES USE OF THE BIG STICK

Says Anglo-Saxons Must Police the World—Germans Have Not Been Beaten Badly Enough.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, April 5.—Isaac F. Marcossion, noted magazine writer and lecturer, speaking on "The War and After" at a luncheon given in his honor by the Chicago Association of Commerce today declared the league of nations was "a piece of altruistic statesmanship but a necessary by-product of four years of sacrifice and slaughter."

Marcossion declared that the only guarantee of a universal and permanent peace lay in the union of the Anglo-Saxon people who "must henceforth police the world."

After calling attention to the "well nigh incredible fact that America is forgetting the war," Marcossion said, "the tragedy of the war is that the Germans have not been beaten badly enough."

"When the German armies went home through a land serene and untouched," he said, "the allied armies of occupation should have been a stick instead of the soft speech and humane act."

Declaring there was a great deal of "camouflage" about Germany's pretensions that she is economically crushed, Marcossion said: "Germany has segregated immense stores of raw material. All this material is being converted into merchandise in German-owned factories in Switzerland, Holland, Sweden and Spain. It is already in competition with American and British goods in the neutral markets, and, if unchecked, will soon be flooding our own."

He branded I. W. Wism as the "new Prussianism." "I warn you solemnly that if we do not stamp out the I. W. W. we shall have no industrial peace in this country," he said. "Moreover, if we do not provide quick and adequate employment for our returning soldiers, these American Bolsheviks will capitalize the unemployed into discontent that will come dangerously near plunging the whole country into economic chaos and worse. Self-preservation is the first law of patriotism and it is likewise the first rule of reconstruction."

Kingston Debaters Lost. "Resolved, That the United States government should own and operate the railways," was the subject of debate in Poughkeepsie Friday evening, the Western-Hayne Club of Kingston High School taking the affirmative and the Irving-Webster Club of Poughkeepsie High School the negative. The negative won the decision. The judges being unanimous. Poughkeepsie High School, of Poughkeepsie, Principal Morris of Highland, and Prof. John T. Loughran of Kingston.

Easier Days for Officers. By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, April 5.—The strident notes of the bugle no longer compel all company officers to spring out of bed at daybreak, attend the formation at reveille with their troops. A general order issued by the war department today modifies the regulation adopted during the war, so as to require only one officer to be present with the troops, so the company officers can now sleep and the "shave-tails" cast lots for the victim.

Wright Divorce Suit. An interlocutory decree of divorce has been granted plaintiff, in the action brought by Ira Wright against Jennie Wright. The parties were married at Napanoch, May 11, 1918, and it was testified to that one Byron Furman was the correspondent, and that she has been living with him in the town of Wawarsing since June 1st, 1918. John R. DeVany is attorney for plaintiff.

Judge Lindsey Ill. By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, April 5.—Judge Benjamin B. Lindsey, of juvenile court fame, is seriously ill in a New York hospital, according to a dispatch received here from Denver, today, however, failed.

Tag Day Broken Up. By Telegram to The Freeman. Toronto, Ont., April 5.—Returned soldiers broke up a tag day sponsored by the W. C. T. U. in the march-die through the streets carrying banners which read, "Don't buy tags. W. C. T. U. try to cut off our smokes." The tag day collectors were recalled after there had been a demonstration which the police put down.

Herbach Case Adjourned. At the request of Paul Riemer, an attorney for Francis J. Bernholz, of Kingston, who was arrested on a charge of petit larceny in passing a worthless check on Charles H. Herbach, was adjourned to Monday morning. Poughkeepsie Eagle-News.

Symphony Orchestra Rehearsal. There will be a rehearsal of the Symphony Society orchestra at Symphony Hall, Crosby building, on Wall street, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, preparations for the coming concert to be held by the society at the high school.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, April 5.—(Special to The Freeman)—S. B. Van Wageningen, Inc., Rondout, bid last yesterday for a state highway repair contract for the improvement of roads in Ulster county. The amount of the bid was $27,225.50. There were five other bidders, including John F. Gallagher, Kingston, $24,277.50, and J. J. & J. H. Johnson, Inc., also of Kingston, $24,440.

H. Prefers The Air. By Telegram to The Freeman. Paris, April 5.—King Albert, of Belgium, returned from Paris to Brussels by airplane today. He believes that it is safer to travel in the air than upon the ground.

BRITISH DEFEAT BEDOUINS IN EGYPT

By Telegram to The Freeman. Cairo, April 4, via London, April 5.—News of a three day battle between British troops and Bedouins at Assiut, in upper Egypt, in which the British were victorious, was received here today.

The small garrison aided by airplanes and machine guns was attacked repeatedly by the Bedouins, all of whom were driven off. All of the women and children refugees were saved. A relief force arrived on a steamer from Beirut. It had to fight its way up the river, both banks being lined with snipers.

RIOTING IN RHEINISH PRUSSIA

By Telegram to The Freeman. Cologne, April 4, via London, April 5.—Rioting broke out at Duisburg, in Rhinish Prussia, today during a fête in honor of the memory of Bismarck.

Spartacists attacked the celebrants and tied a red sash around a statue of Bismarck. The statue was then overturned and thrown into the crowd, resulting in a free for all fight.

The police finally quelled the disorders. Many civilian women stenographers and women army workers are arriving here. They form the advance guard of the British business men who are coming into Rhinish Prussia to seek German trade.

A $10 TALE ABOUT YOUNG CALF'S TAIL

Isaac Farber's Method of Removing a Calf From Wagon Proves Costly—Harry Hutton Kicked Up Rumpus on Strand.

Isaac Farber, the down town kosher butcher, found it rather expensive this morning in police court when arraigned before Judge Schirck on a charge of cruelty to animals preferred against him by Fred Brown, an officer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. This was Farber's second offense. A year or so ago he was fined $5 for carrying two calves in a wagon in an inhuman manner. The legs of the calves were tied together. The present offense was that of yanking a calf out of a wagon which was backed up in front of his place of business. Farber's method was that of grasping the calf by the tail and hauling the calf out. The calf's head struck the hard roadway. Mr. Brown, who witnessed the affair, lodged the complaint.

Mr. Farber pleaded guilty to the charge and in extenuation urged the fact that he had to use some way of getting the calf out of the wagon. It being his second offense Judge Schirck imposed a fine of $10, which Farber paid.

Hutton Resisted Arrest. Harry Hutton, who was recently discharged from the navy, kicked up a rumpus on the Strand Friday night which finally led to his being placed under arrest by Officer Dan. He entered several of the Strand stores and was hauled out of one of them, but that did not seem to subside his spirit any. When arrested he tried to put up an argument with the officer, but was unsuccessful. This morning in police court he was represented by Judge W. D. Brinnier, Jr., and entered a plea of not guilty. Judge Brinnier asked for a week's adjournment, which was granted and Hutton released from custody when he furnished $50 cash bail for his appearance in police court. Hutton has been in trouble before.

Thinnest Building in the World. By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, April 5.—The thinnest building in the world is to be erected on Michigan Boulevard here. The building will be 120 feet wide and only nine feet deep. It will be erected by Walter F. Chandler and will be nothing more than a huge show window, the entire space being devoted to the displaying of merchandise, with spectacular lighting effects.

Van Wageningen the Lion Bigger. By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, April 5.—(Special to The Freeman)—S. B. ## DEWITT DISCUSSES LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Sum Up Situation to Date at Weekly Discussion of St. John's Club on Friday Evening.

The weekly discussion and symposium of the St. John's Club at St. John's parish house Friday evening was largely attended. Dr. Williams presided and read a very interesting letter from a resident of Kingston on the League of Nations. The discussion on that subject, which began last week, was continued, the speakers being Robert Herdman and A. W. Van Tassel. Major William Vallette related interestingly some of his experiences in the Civil War and eloquently portrayed Lincoln. Dr. Smithers of Middletown spoke on the League of Nations and Postmaster W. C. DeWitt closed the discussion on the League of Nations, reviewing the work done by the peace conference since the discussion last week. He said:

Since our discussion of this most important topic two weeks ago the suggestions of several of our leading statesmen have been embodied into the second draft of the constitution of the proposed League of Nations. This good news and the statement of the president that the sessions of the peace conference are not being delayed or interfered with by the debates at Paris on the final draft of the constitution have given an optimistic turn to the general sentiment at home and abroad. Rome was not built in a day nor were treaties after the great wars of the past consummated in a few months. Our own treaty with Great Britain at Ghent occupied practically a year's time. That of the Spanish War took up six months before the senate received the draft of the treaty from the time Spain commenced to sue for peace. The things already accomplished and the dangers avoided so far are most striking to contemplate. Let us all look forward with glad hearts to a successful culmination of the great work—proper redress by Germany, Austria, Turkey, Bulgaria in proportion to their abilities to pay and to the wicked deeds committed, fair apportionment to the nations attacked, safeguards for the future and a League of Peace for all peoples who show themselves worthy and sincere.

While no official announcement has been made covering the Monroe Doctrine's inclusion in the proposed draft the impression is that it will be recognized in principle. Also do not worry as to domestic affairs such as immigration being regulated by a league. This is only for such countries to decide. No powers relating to our own civil and governmental acts or subjects affecting our own safety or happiness will be delegated to outside influences. Leave it to your "Uncle Samuel." As to the disposition of the German fleet and future disarmament, our navy and army will be greater rank among the greatest in the world, amply able to defend our rights against all or any. Our national safety will never be endangered by the proposal, on the contrary strengthened. Do not be disturbed as to our being outvoted in the council. If we are we can swing the majority of the delegates because we will never ask for their support in anything selfish or against the rights of others. Our form of government, that of a republic, is the most popular in the world—there remain only eight monarchies. If those predominate in the council republics will outweigh them five times over in the body of delegates. Our record of absolute fairness to Cuba, the Philippines and to the nations in the world war has struck a chord in the hearts of men from shore to shore. I also trust our Allies and believe that they will not attempt to take advantage of us now or in the future. Surely we have drawn them to us forevermore. The present delay is caused, in my judgment, by disagreement as to the Saar Valley in the Rhineland, the amount of indemnity to be charged Germany and its division between France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium. Let us have a bit more of patience and uphold our Joshua's hands (ill auster). We won in war, now let us win in the peace negotiations and include a league for future generations as well as for ourselves.

Staving Off Old Age.
Among many other extraordinary plans for prolonging one's stay on this interesting planet may be mentioned that of a South African farmer who advised people to eat every day four pounds of bananas steeped in sweetened whisky, and that of a professor in the University of Pennsylvania who believed that much could be done in the way of staving off old age by frequently having one's feet tickled!

BE-E ON HAND

VEGETABLES NEED A BALANCED FOOD

Manure Alone Will Not Give It—
Acid Phosphate and Bone Meal
Good Supplemental Fertilizers.

Complaints have been received by the New York state college of agriculture from gardeners who say that their gardens last year produced a large growth of plant, but poor development of seed and fruit, or poor development of the underground portion. This is usually the result of using large quantities of manure without any phospho fertilizer to make a balanced plant food, say the college gardeners.

Manure puts the soil in good physical condition; but for crops grown for roots, as beets, carrots, and parsnips, those grown for their fruit as tomatoes and melons, or those grown for their seeds, as beans and peas, something else is needed.

How to Apply Acid Phosphate.

Acid phosphate and bone meal are considered the best fertilizers to use in conjunction with manure. When using either of these fertilizers on garden soils, it is advisable for the gardener to apply at the rate of 2 to 4 pounds to a square rod. When manure is not used, it is best to apply a complete fertilizer, that is, one containing nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash. A good complete fertilizer can usually be produced from a seed dealer or fertilizer dealer. On most soils 5 to 10 pounds to a square rod will give good results.

Nitrate of soda is valuable for forcing quick growth in the spring and for stimulating weak or stunted plants. This fertilizer is especially valuable for foliage crops such as cabbage, celery, lettuce, and chard. Care should be exercised in applying nitrate or the plants may be injured. These college workers say. It may be applied at the rate of 2 to 1 1/2 pounds to a square rod. Nitrate may be applied broadcast or as a side dressing; when used as a side dressing, however, it must not be placed too near the plants or injury is likely to result.

Know She Would Be Asked.

Thillie was leaving to go over to her little chum's house, when she suddenly turned in the door and called to her mother. "Mamma, has baby brother got any teeth yet?" When asked why she wished to know, she replied, "So I can tell Mabel's mother. She always asks me if he has any teeth yet when I goes over to play with Mabel."

SOLDIERS WHO "KNOCK."

The New York Sun of March 31 publishes an anonymous letter from a soldier of the American Expeditionary Forces that could be profitably republished in every newspaper of this country. In general it is a warning that the American public will get "a black picture" of just about everything from many of our returning soldiers, for the simple reason that the American people are "constitutional knockers" and the soldiers for the most part are not exceptions. "If there is a prominent American characteristic," writes this observant doughboy, "it is knocking. And the next prominent characteristic is bragging. When we have a sympathetic audience we knock, when it isn't so sympathetic or has claims of its own we brag. Returning soldiers coming to a sympathetic audience—home folks—knock, and the Americans here do the same among themselves. But let a German open his trap, just to ask a question, for instance, and you would not believe that the same people are talking."

The average doughboy fights bravely and is enormously proud of his country and its army, but when he has nothing else to do, true to his birthright, he will sit and "knock"—the government, the war management, the French people, everything under the sun, even America, "by the hour." The writer of this remarkable letter says he understands the stories of returning soldiers and admits that he himself expects to do some knocking when he comes home, for "there have been things to criticize." Nevertheless he asserts that the work of the American war machine in France "has been great from start to finish," and that he knows this is so because his line of duty gave him exceptional opportunity for observation. It is true that the soldiers have had "hard trials," but "corresponding to every kick there is something to brag about."

And the triumphant issue of the great effort inspires him. He regards the victory he "prayed for" as "the judgment of God on the work of the devil"—concluding, "There are evil ways among the victors, there are faults in allied soldiers and nations. But the sum total of them is nothing compared to the work of the satanic alliance—Germany, Austria, Bulgaria, Turkey—all crooked, all lustful, all persecutors of others (and their own peoples) and all licked."

AN UNUSUAL TRIBUTE.

Hotels innumerable have been named after their owners, after statesmen, kings, princes, etc., as the Astor in New York, the Jefferson in Richmond and the King Edward in Toronto, but never until now, as far as we can recall, has one been named after an author. The news comes that a North Carolina hotel builder has called his new million dollar caravansary the O. Henry, that the silver and linen will bear this story writer's name, that the portrait of the late William Sydney Porter (a son of North Carolina) will adorn every lounge room, and that illustrations from his works will be used as wall decorations. Poor struggling Porter, whose great fame developed only after his death, would have rubbed his eyes unbelievably before such an astonishing spectacle and surpassing advertisement.

Noting in this connection that the roster of popular authors, dead and alive, is unlimited, the New York Sun asks: "May we not soon see the Hotel Henry James, with winding, mazy corridors and obscure corners; the Thomas Hardy, far from the maddening crowd and famous for its Gloom Room; the Tennyson, with a brook running through the lobby and a marble Sir Galahad frowning on Fraunce's Alley; the Stevenson, with a young man serving cream tart in a pavilion on the links; the Decey, with a cave for patrons as well as rooms; the Poe, with mysterious prices; the Mark Twain, with huckleberry banana haddie as a specialty; the Eugene Field, with foods fresh from the Sabine Farms; and the Dickens, with an Oliver Twist room for diners who wish second helpings?" Probably not so very soon, if ever. Yet the O. Henry may prove a good stroke of business, and certainly the compliment is more than deserved by a writer who, judged he may have appeared in person in private, is ever charming and ever dear in his books.

Before the war Great Britain had nearly a million and a half more women than men and the long casualty lists have made matters much worse. Emigration is suggested as a remedy, but the voting women of other countries—some of them with a feminine surplus already—are likely to see that the bars are put up against such incoming rivalry.

Prominent Germans continue to assert that no peace treaty will be signed that is not entirely satisfactory to Berlin. From their talk one might suppose that Germany had won the war or had stopped fighting merely with the intention of marching to battle again after a short recuperative rest.

War gardens ought to become a permanent institution of peace. They pay in the food produced and pay still more in the healthful recreation they furnish the man of business in his off hours.

K. H. S. MIDGETS 27
HUDSON MIDGETS 12

Friday afternoon in the high school gymnasium the local Midgets walloped the Hudson Midgets to the tune of 27-12. This game ended the season for the Midgets with a record of but one defeat in the whole season. The game in which they were beaten was staged at Poughkeepsie, where the Midgets of that place nosed out ahead in the final moment with a one point margin. The local boys have a record to be proud of and much credit is due to their captain, Lawrence Goldberg, whose leadership has been unexcelled. The Hudson boys played a harder and better game than they did on their own court. They doubled the score that they made at home against the locals, but it would have to be more than doubled to win. Albrecht and Foster at forward positions played together and in their usual good manner. Albrecht did not seem to be able to drop the ball through the hoop like he generally does, however, he played hard.

Van Bramer at center played a very fast game, getting the jump on his man most of the time. He was all over the floor and seemed to be wherever needed. Goldberg and Messinger, the star guards, were on hand with their excellent work. They guarded close and broke up passes with ease and great skill. Thompson and Meiswinkle as substitutes played in the regular Midget style. The former was at forward and the latter at guard. The score at half time was 9-2 with Kingston Midgets on the leading end. Following is the summary:

ATHLETIC FIELD
A CERTAINTY

Kingston Amusement Park Association
Organized at Meeting Friday Night--Land to be Surveyed and Purchased.

The proposed athletic field that has been creating so much interest among Kingstonians is now a sure thing and the Kingston Amusement Park Association was organized at a meeting of the promoters held in the Elks club home on Fair street Friday night and officers elected.

The association will develop the tract of land at the foot of North Front street in the rear of Bethany Chapel in an up-to-date athletic field and amusement park. The land will be laid out so as to afford proper facilities for baseball and other outdoor sports and will be one of the finest equipped amusement centers in the Hudson valley.

The officers for the new association that were elected are: President, Aaron Cohen; secretary, Matthew H. Herzog; and treasurer, William M. Davis. Virgil B. Van Wageningen will be counsel for the association.

The land will be surveyed the early part of next week by a local engineer and it will be purchased at the completion of the survey.

Local county people will in due time appreciate this spot as an amusement center and the merchants will undoubtedly realize the long needed want has been eliminated and eventually will be benefited by the park. With the prominent backers of the project this field will be developed into a rendezvous of sport worthy of its name.

At present there are about 25 subscribers to the association and all are from the most prominent business men who with united efforts are going to make the up town section of this city a place of note. The association will be incorporated in a short time and will commence to do business.

Those who were present at the meeting and expressed their views of endorsement of the plan were: Aaron Cohen, M. H. Herzog, Herbert Carl, Ralph Cohen, William J. Turk, Charles A. Warren, C. A. Mullen, Herman Marblestone, E. F. MacFadden, A. H. Chambers, G. A. Hart, Sam Bernstein, Sr., Charles Ten Broeck, William M. Davis, Vincent A. Gorman, C. H. Lovin, Frank Forman and V. B. Van Wageningen, counsel.

CITIZENS' LEAGUE
OFFICERS ELECTED

The Citizens League of Ulster county at its annual meeting March 4th elected as its Executive Committee, Edward A. Smiley, Rev. J. V. Wemple, Fred L. Metcalf, John Herring, E. E. Deyo, Dr. C. B. Cragin, Rev. T. A. Beekman, Morgan K. Contant and Dr. P. N. Chase.

That committee met at the home of the secretary, 15 Green street, Thursday April 3rd and proceeded to elect the officers, with the following results: President, Edward A. Smiley; vice president, Rev. J. V. Wemple; secretary and treasurer, Dr. P. N. Chase.

It was decided to make all possible efforts to stop the illegal sale of intoxicants. Anyone in the county knowing of the same should communicate with the secretary.

It was also determined to assist in any way to carry out "War Prohibition" which goes into effect July 1st, making the nation bone dry. It was thought by some that this might be the most important year in the history of the league.

The league will welcome all moral and financial assistance in its effort to enforce the excise laws.

Their Soup and Coffee.
A soldier, in writing home from France, stated that he was unable to mention the name of the river that coursed through his sector because if the missive fell into enemy hands it would furnish valuable information on the source of supply of the soup and coffee.—Chicago Tribune.

CHURCH WELCOME TO SERVICE MEN

Welcome Committees are Being Appointed by Wide-Awake Religious Bodies to Greet Returning Soldiers and Sailors.

Thousands of congregations are appointing church welcome committees to greet and serve returning soldiers.

The country wide plan was launched just a few days ago by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. It now has the endorsement of the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the War Camp Community Service, U. S. Department of Labor and the Federal Council of Churches.

Every congregation in the country is called upon to appoint such a committee. Full details concerning the plan may be obtained from the headquarters of these organizations, or E. S. Mottsworth, Executive, Church Welcome Committee, 1129 Walnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 5.—Reports from all over the country show that thousands of congregations are appointing church welcome committees to greet and serve in every way possible returning soldiers and sailors. Great impetus has been given the movement, which was inaugurated by the Army and Navy Department of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew of the Episcopal Church, by the endorsement of the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the War Camp Community Service, the U. S. Department of Labor and the Federal Council of Churches. In fact, several of them have become actively interested in pushing the idea.

With a united voice they are appealing to the thousands of congregations in the United States to do their part to help the returned soldier and his family during the trying readjustment period, which follows a man discharged from service. They are putting the problem squarely upon the individual church, calling upon it to organize a church welcome committee of active laymen.

In small communities it has been suggested that several churches work together in a joint committee. Literally thousands of committees are being formed. The plan is for them to personally welcome each returning soldier or sailor and to serve them.

"Great assistance can be rendered our splendid men who have so faithfully done their duty, and also their families, in making the readjustment necessary in home and community by the churches of the United States. The Red Cross is counting upon their close co-operation, and the church welcome committee offers the way," says J. Byron Deacon, director general of the department of civilian relief, American Red Cross.

Edward Easton, Jr., national superintendent of the bureau for returning soldiers and sailors, United States department of labor, says:

"Experience at demobilization camps shows that 30 per cent of the men being discharged, need assistance in finding civil employment. Industrial conditions throughout the country are such that demobilization may be attended with serious consequences if returning soldiers are not wisely and promptly directed to employment.

"The clergy and the church people of the country can render a patriotic and humane duty in assisting in this work. The church welcome committee should be appointed by every congregation."

"The church realizes its responsibility and opportunity in regard to the men coming home from the war. The war time commission of the federal council of churches urges every congregation to appoint a church welcome committee to serve in whatever way may be necessary," says a statement issued by the council through the Rev. W. Stuart Cramer.

The war camp community service is doing its utmost to push the plan. Appeals have been sent to its six hundred centers throughout the country calling upon them to do everything possible in helping the movement. It is as follows:

War camp community service is ever desirous of helping the communities organize to care for our men who have so valiantly served our country and who are now returning to their homes and facing the difficult problem of readjustment. Our churches have rendered splendid service in caring for the boys who were stationed in nearby camps and training stations. They organized to extend hospitality to all whether or not they were of the same religious faith, having in mind no doubt their own men whose stars were shining in the service flag so proudly displayed.

Now their own boys are coming home—many of them have already returned. Of course, they should not and will not be neglected. They do not want to be considered or worshipped as heroes but they are very human and some have had strange and terrible experiences. Every one of them has had his life abruptly broken into and disrupted and must now reform all his future plans and readjust himself to present conditions. Being very human, he will appreciate all the interest which the men of his home town will take in his welfare and will welcome all the constructive help they will give him.

The men of the churches can be of inestimable help because the boys crave personal contact with red-blooded men. The boys are not the inexperienced youngsters they were when they left home. They have grown and developed amazingly. They welcome any and all opportunities that will be given them to prove their capabilities.

On the other hand, some are coming home not quite as wholesome as they were. But we need not dwell on the needs of this very small group—it is enough to say that they all need the uplifting influence of the church and the church needs the inspiration and leadership of their rugged democratic idealism. In order that the men as they return to their home communities may be met in the right spirit and welcomed into the fellowship of the churches, it is that every church form a church welcome committee whose business will be to properly welcome the men whose stars appear on the service flag in which the church has taken so much pride in displaying substantial and practical recognition of the service rendered by her men. This recognition cannot be made in any better way or one that will be more appreciated than by personal intimate man to man relationship.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hines of No. 55 Moore street announce the engagement of their son, Charles, to Miss Hazel Roosa of this city, formerly of Hurley.

Protaeq-Quick.

Lewis Protass of New York and Miss Jane M. Quick of New Falls were united in marriage by the Rev. James Douglass at the New Falls M. E. Church Friday evening, March 28. Mrs. Protass resides at Sunset Inn.

Golden Wedding.

Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Dean celebrated their golden wedding at their home, 73 Liberty street on the 4th of April, 1919. Mr. and Mrs. Dean were married in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Hobart, N. Y., in 1869, by Mrs. Dean's father, the late Rev. William D. Fero of New York conference, who was pastor of the church. They have two sons, Ralph W. Dean of Bayside, N. Y., and W. E. Dean of Brooklyn, N. Y. Ralph has two sons, Theodore Essex, in high school at Flushing, and Lawrence in primary at Bayside. W. E. Dean has one daughter living at Cairo, N. Y. Mrs. Dean is a graduate of Andes College of Union College of the class of '66, and received the degree of B. A., which is a better test of scholarship than a degree given simply as a favor. Those present from out of town were E. C. Dean of Delhi and his daughter, Miss Margaret, Ralph W. Dean of Bayside and children, Teddy and Lawrence, William E. Dean of Brooklyn, and DeRoy S. Fero of New York city and Miss Hazel Dean of Pine Hill. All were guests at dinner at the Stuyvesant and feasted on turkey and so forth. The presents were many and very appropriate. After a day of unusual pleasure the family separated for their own homes.

Reading Useless Without Action.
If you want to get value out of a book, however, don't lean on it as though you were a cripple. A book can't take you by sheer force and project you into a good job, or put more money in your pay envelope, or make you industrious or patient when you are otherwise. All you can expect of a book is that it tells you how these things can be accomplished. The real job lies with you.

JANSEN WRITES OF THE PIONEERS

Interesting Account of Experiences in Camp and Field of a Pioneer-Hockey Man Now Overseas.

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Edward Jansen of No. 57 Gill street from her son, Corporal Charles Jansen, overseas.

Colonia Le Haut, Haute Marne, France, March 1, 1919.

Dear Mother:
I take great pleasure in writing you these few lines hoping that they will find you well and enjoying the best of health as this leaves me at present.

Well, mother, I have never told you about my trials and troubles since coming into the service. Well, you know that I left home May 26th, 1918, and arrived at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C., and after getting a couple of shots in the arm and learning how to become a soldier in U. S. S. magnificent army to defend yourself against foreign foes, and mother, it is the greatest thing a young fellow could ever learn.

After staying in camp about 3 or 4 weeks I was brought out on the parade ground with several others and we were picked out to go into the 6th Division Regulars, and after being in the recruit camp about ten days, I joined Co. K, 51st Infantry at Camp Mills, Long Island, and after drawing our overseas equipment July 5th bound with our heavy marching order on hitting for the gang plank and on July 6th, Saturday morning, amid the shrills of whistles and bells ringing we slid away from the old pier at New York to find ourselves soon to take up our new home in a foreign land, after 15 days of sailing through mild and sometimes stormy weather, and with a few submarine scares we landed at Liverpool, England, and there's where we were more than welcomed by the English people. They certainly were glad to see us. We got on the boat with a short street parade, we boarded a train and we soon found ourselves encamped at the ancient city of Winchester, and mother, it was some place, and there were men there to explain the history of Winchester to us, and after staying there for a few days' rest, we soon found ourselves on another train, this hitting for South Hampton, where we boarded another boat to soon find ourselves in Le Harve, France, and I sure did seem funny to see signs that we couldn't understand, but we soon got on to them.

It is quite customary in this country to see women waiters in hotel cafes. Well, mother, we rested in Le Harve, France, for a day or two, and then we boarded another train, this time to find ourselves going across France, and after two days' riding across France we landed in Creaway. We took up our final training before going into the trenches. We stayed here about 4 weeks, and one morning in August we got on motor lorries, and we found ourselves in back of the lines in Alsace Lorraine and Vosges Mountain sector, and one night in September, I think it was September 10th or 11th, 1918, and it was some night. It rained and you couldn't see your hand in front of you. But it was all for our benefit for there were no signs of us getting in any gas barrage, and early morning on September 12th we were right in the front line trenches facing Jerry, the Germans as we call them, and mother, I went over the top a few times on patrol. Some wonderful sight.

No Man's Land is there where I was a corporal. We stayed in the trenches from September 12th until October 13th, 1918, and after a couple of days' hiking we were back for about ten days' rest and October 24th found us hitting the trail for the Argonne Woods. You certainly must have read about it home, and after a couple of days' riding in a train we went into the woods in back of the Argonne lines and on November 1st, 1918, we started out. Mother, it was the greatest experience I have ever underwent, and believe me mother we were going some when on November 11th we were stopped by the armistice being signed, and it was a good thing Germany wanted when she did or it would have been good-bye Germany. She certainly would have been good-bye Germany if they ever sent a barrage into Germany like they did on this Argonne front I know what the results would have been. When we turned back we were close to Germany and Belgium and from there we hiked to Verdun, where we halted for a few days' rest and then we started to ride the hob-nail special; our hob-nail shoes I mean, that's what our doughboys call them, and after fifteen days' hiking we got to where we are now, and we have plenty of time to ourselves and plenty of good eats and recreations. But, mother, there were lots of times when we were in the lines that we had it quite hard. But our men always take hardships just like pleasures when they are in to save Old Glory from being trampled on, for we all love our flag; willing to stand by it any old time it is endangered by any foreign enemy.

I think I have told you all up until the present time. I don't know just when I'll be home, but cheer up, mother, I'll be home some time this summer. Of course you know that now I am in the regular army, and it is most likely that all the other divisions will go home before us. I have seen pretty nearly all of France and while I am over here I might just as well go to Germany. I think I would like to see it. But, mother, just keep your eyes open and look at the sailing list and when you see where the Sixth Division sails for home you will know I am among that convoy coming home. I am in the 1st Infantry.

I think I will have to bring my letter to a close. But before closing, mother, don't worry over me for I am getting along fine and feeling well. You won't know me when I get back. Give my regards to my sister and her little ones. I will now close, hoping to hear from you soon. I remain as ever, your most affectionate son,
CHARLES.

At the head of the procession of gaily, handsomely and artistically decorated window displays for the opening of Dress-Up Week, stretching the entire two mile length of our city, stands the Rose Gorman and Rose store, and the appearance of the spacious windows and the equally spacious store was such as to make this store indeed appropriate as leader of them all. This was one of the stores before which the crowd was the densest when the signal sounded for the unveiling of the windows.

Many of the vast crowds that thronged the streets last evening have asked who were the local artists that are responsible for the beautiful displays in the various windows. The R-G-R windows, the largest and most extensive in the city and therefore the more difficult to properly adorn, were the special care of P. J. Fogarty and Messrs. McIntyre and Turner. A vast amount of preliminary preparation was necessary to provide the simple yet artistic effects that have received so many favorable comments.

Regular merchandise and flowers were the only materials used. In the first window an artistic drape of blue and buff silk poplin form the background. While the foreground is made up of attractive drapes of figured Georgette and plain satin, making a rich color effect. The touch of spring given with a vase of Japanese cherry blossoms and pussy willows tastefully arranged.

In the second window, just five beautiful garments including a dolman of the new crystal cord, a coat, an exclusive design and two attractive suits with a very simple Georgette waist complete the display.

The entrance window is used for a display of spring overalls and is charmingly set off with a cluster of Japanese cherry blossoms and pussy willows.

In the main window, three handsome dresses, the one of flesh Georgette crepe with bead trimming, the other of duchess satin and Georgette in black with a bodice trimmed with jet and the third of blue figured Georgette and satin form the main features of a most attractive display. Every one voted the affair a big success and the windows of the R-G-R store and all the other stores more beautiful than ever before.

Mrs. Noble, the organist, will be accompanied by Leonard Doyle, violinist.

Sea Level.
Sea level in the scientific sense means the theoretical mean or average from which elevations or depressions on the earth are calculated. The exact and accurate survey, which is an important auxiliary on such subjects, says "Mean sea level may be defined as the surface which would be assumed by the water of the oceans at rest if there were no action by the wind or by the tides due to the attraction of the moon and sun. The sea level surface is at all points at right angles to a free-extending plumbline."
